

The Do Not Call List is extremely helpful. Everyone knows what type of annoyance telemarketers are. If people really want to buy their products, they'll go out and find them; we consumers do not need people calling us at home and bothering us about items we have no need for.